

To: System X Designs

From: John Deerman
Creekside Air, LLC

While asking around for someone who could build a website, I was told about a local company that has done numerous projects in the area. I met with a representative, and explained the needs that my business had in regards to a website. I wanted a way to share information about our company as well as provide access to relevant documents that our customers would need. I explained that budget was a primary issue, and that I needed the site to be completely launched as soon as possible.

To my surprise, I was able to pay in installments and the price was significantly lower than the industry average. Furthermore, the site was up and running in less than 10 days! Our website has become an integral aspect of our business, and we truly appreciate System X Designs for going the extra mile to ensure that we were happy with the outcome.

I highly recommend System X Designs to anyone considering a website for their business. They do not burden you with hidden fees, their pricing is great, and they finish the job when they say they will. I have nothing but good things to say about the way they do business!

Sincerely,

John Deerman

www.CreeksideAir.com